Step Two: Writing In The Gaps In Life

Christie often found inspiration while doing other tasks – washing dishes, taking a walk or chatting with friends. These quiet moments can be unexpected sources of creativity.

Think of a time when an idea or solution came to you while doing something unrelated to writing. Describe what you were doing, how the idea formed and how it influenced your work. Do other instances of surprising inspiration come to mind? Allow your mind to wander through the last few weeks of life, and note down any snippets that come to you.
